“Quote” of the week

"We can see hope in the midst of hopelessness. We can see peace in the midst of chaos. We have a hope that the world does not have. We can see clearly that all things work together for the good of them that love Him and are called according to His purpose."

—Priscilla Shirer

Bulletin: If you have news you would like to see shared in the bulletin, please get it to Art by Thursday noon (kingstonchurchofchrist@yahoo.com or 613-876-4605).

Visitors, Welcome to our gathering! Join us in worship and fellowship.

In these days of social distancing, we may not hug or shake your hand, but we welcome you into our gathering.

Please join us in worshipping God as we sing, pray and read the Bible. We also share communion each Sunday remembering the sacrifice of Jesus who gave himself to die for our sins. If you wish to partake with us, you are free to do so.

We hold the Bible to be God's inspired message for us and hold it in highest esteem.

If a question comes to mind, please ask it. We will try to help you find answers from God. If you would like to request a special prayer, please let us know.

Would Roses Cost a Lot, Mister?

The following bulletin article was written by Brother Morris Thurman, former preacher for the Memorial Road congregation, on June 26, 1977. It's a great human-interest story about sacrifice that bears repeating today:

Henry Penn, the Boston florist who originated the slogan, "Say It With Flowers," told how one morning two boys and a girl came into his florist shop and said: "We're the flower committee and we would like some nice yellow flowers, sir. Do you have any yellow flowers? He would like them better if they were yellow. He had a yellow sweater."

"Are they for a funeral?" asked Penn.

The children nodded "yes" and kept back the tears. "She's his sister," one of the boys explained. "He was good kid, a truck yesterday — we were playing in the street — we saw it happen."

Then the other boy added, "Us kids took up a collection. We got eighteen cents — would roses cost a lot, mister? Yellow roses?"

Touched by the story of the tragedy and the loyalty of the kids, Henry Penn replied, "I have some nice yellow roses here that I am selling for eighteen cents a dozen just this morning." The sympathetic florist accepted the eighteen cents and the committee carried away the flowers they had chosen. Said Penn, "I felt uplifted for days. I had been given the inexpressible privilege of sharing something."

As Christians, we too have that inexpressible privilege of sharing. "We have this treasure in earthen vessels" (2 Corinthians 4:7). "We are ambassadors for Christ, as though God were pleading through us." To share the glorious Good News of salvation in Christ, "we implore you on Christ's behalf, be reconciled to God" (2 Corinthians 5:20).

We want all to know "the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding" (Philippians 4:7). In love and compassion, we share the knowledge of Christ.
